Dear His Excellency Mr. Constantin CAKIOUSSIS,

We, the International Society of Oral Care (ISOC) are honored to announce the establishment of ISOC with Japanese Society of Oral Care (JSOC) as the parent organization, and convening of its first international congress on April 18th, 2021 at Yasuda Hall of the University of Tokyo.

ISOC is an association of professionals of the fields of medicine, dentistry, pharmacology, nursing, dental hygiene, and speech-language pathology, and of the fields in which the importance of oral care is being reassessed such as nutrition and social welfare. We aim to promote health, prevent diseases, and promote supportive care for disease through oral care.

Under our motto "equality, respect and integrity", we provide humanitarian support without distinction of country, profession, or race, and we hope to contribute to the promotion of people's health all around the world and to the promotion of friendship and goodwill between countries through oral care.

Oral care is found significantly effective in preventing infectious diseases such as flu, and now receiving attention as effective supportive care for cancer and other diseases. It also helps preventing aspiration pneumonia and dementia among elderly and have contributed greatly to the world's leading longevity of the Japanese.

JSOC has established ISOC to share with the world the latest finding of oral care in Japan, and offer foreign professionals opportunities to report their academic knowledge and findings through the Internet for free of charge.

Remarkable outcomes of oral care are expected to be reported at the congress at the University of Tokyo. We request the honor of the company of Your Excellency and your officials of your Embassy to the opening of congress. We hope that personnel of your country of medical, dental, pharmacological, nursing, etc. are informed of the congress, and that as many professionals as possible will attend the congress. Their participation fee is free of charge. Please refer to <http://oralcareweb.org> for detail.

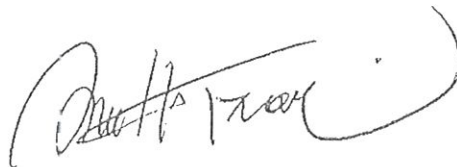

We would be much obliged if you could recommend one or two professionals in your country as our council member (Please use the format enclosed with this letter).

We intend to hold international congresses every April from next year on, and hope that many of your professionals participate in our congress via the Internet to contribute to the promotion of health and prevention of disease in your own country.
